Piled 10 feet high, Fairgrounds discards mar exotic Woody Block

Rubble trouble for exotic stubble

PLEASANTON — The "Woody Block" is having a renaissance.

It looks like a tangled thicket to passers - by on Fair Avenue behind the Fairgrounds racetrack.

But rancher Harry Lefever calls it "the only one of its kind in the country" — two acres filled with exotic plants from all over the world. Local agriculture students, Soil Conservation Service staff and Resource Conservation District members are cooperating to bring "Woody Block" back to its former glory.

They're also trying to persuade fairgrounds officials to haul away the piles of old picnic tables, a refrigerator (the students had to take the doors off it for safety's sake), platforms and lumber that line the entrance to the grounds.

During fair time, concessionaires park their vehicles among the South African acacia, Moroccan rockrose and Australian leatherroot — to the horror of those trying to save the area.

Not that the plants are very delicate. The Woody Block was part of a much larger federal Plant Materials Center set up years ago by the Soil Conservation Service to see which exotic plants would survive in the local climate.

Most have survived quite well. There's an acacia grove shading six of the sturdy green picnic tables the fairgrounds workers had thrown on the rubble pile. (Others are still there to be hauled away.)

The velvet mesquite from Arizona is bearing long yellow pods and the Mediterranean saltbush from Arkansas is thriving.

Some of the other 82 shrubs and trees crowding the Woody Block include birchleaf mahogany from Santa Clara County; adella from Monterey; gardener saltbush from Wyoming; multifloria rose from Massachusetts; wichura rose from Missouri; autumn olive from New York and acacia from Brazil and Australia.

The plants were raised to see which would provide food and cover for local wildlife and survive without constant tending. Currently, the overgrown two acres are home for cottontail rabbits, quail, small rodents and birds.

Livermore High agriculture students using Woody Block as a train (ng ground are trytng to water hole, to attract more wildlife.

It's not helping that the fairgroundsrubble is piled up on what used to

One session due before teachers vote

Murray School District teachers are four days from taking a strike vote that could lead to massive emergency measures.

But the district administration is apparently ready if teachers go to a vote and then decide to walk out.

In the interim period, at least one more mediation session is expected. That one could come today or Saturday though the teachers unit had requested a Monday eve meeting between school board counsel Keith Breon, assistant superintendent Heinz Gewing, the teachers negotiating team and mediator Mike West.

At a public information meeting held Wednesday at Dublin High School, teachers urged parents in the audience to phone school board members with the general message to "listen to the teachers and be fair."

Murray Teachers Association president Bob Kroetch and fellow unit members passed out fact sheets with the names and phone numbers of school board members Ted Woy, president, and Bob Foster, Ann Henderson, Pete Snyder and Linda Jeffery.

Teachers say binding arbitration of grievances and salary are the two major points still to be resolved.

In a release to the news media Wednesday, the administration listed its latest offer.

On the key points, the board says it will agree to (1) cost of living increase of 6.2 per cent in addition to step and column movement. They would be granted retroactive to July 1.

The board is also proposing (2) binding arbitration on an ad hoc basis and (3) a calendar of 180 days.

The "ad hoc" stipulation may yet prove a stumbling point.

In an accompanying sheet released by the administration, the "meaning of the board's position" is explained.

Under a section headed "salary improvement for teachers," the release states; Average cost of raise to the district will be $1,340 plus $196.68 for fringe benefits, total $1,536.68; the individual raise will depend on whether the teacher moves a step or column, but for those who do not move, the increase will be 6.2 per cent (4.88 per cent plus 1.32 per cent fringe benefit); additional increase for column movement averaged $580 last year, according to the administration release, and will increase to an average $610 if salary adjustment is applied across the board.

Under a section headed "projected amount, operating reserve," the district release says $534,000 is presently in the budget, less $63,000 lost due to declining enrollment this year. With the 6.2 per cent offer, the amount left would be $99,000 plus $100,000 for declining enrollment or a total of $199,000. The $99,000 equals a 1.24 per cent reserve and $199,000 a 2.5 per cent reserve."

And finally, the district asks rhetorically, "Why maintain a 2.5 per cent operating reserve?" The answers listed include "to insure continuance of all current programs for next year," "Gov. Brown has stated that there will be no new monies for education next year," and "lack of funds next year could result in reduction of personnel."

The teachers unit has previously announced it would take a strike vote at 7 a.m. Tuesday if a contract settlement was not reached by that hour.

Any strike would affect in excess of 5,200 K-8 students and some 240 teachers.

Pleasanton garbage fee hike studied

PLEASANTON — The statistical information which could lead to a request for a boost in garbage rates was made public yesterday.

A letter from Pleasanton Garbage Service attorney William Hirst to City Manager Bill Edgar dated Oct. 21 claimed the firm lost $26,781 between July 1 and Sept. 30. The loss came as a result of paying higher wages to union members and unforeseen improvements which had to be made to the firm's new garbage transfer station on Bush Road.

Some of the unforeseen expenses on Bush Road included a $15,000 water line, a $12,000 cardboard bailer, $3,500 for purchase of a water line, $4,500 for paving in front of the transfer station as required by the city, and $6,500 for scales.

Another fiscal problem for the firm is the failure to sell its interest in the old Pleasanton dump. Plans for it have not been approved by the Alameda County planning department, although they are "an admirable recycling effort", said attorney Hirst.

The council also received yesterday in its packet for the Monday night meeting a letter from Michael Lynn, business agent for Teamsters Local 70. Lynn explained his union's requests for a written contract with the garbage firm's managment and noted the employes will walk off the job Nov. 15 if there is no progress in negotiations.

Lynn called on the city council to talk to the company "in order that the stalemate be broken".

Local 70 has no right to interfere in talks between the garbage company and the city over rates and the union would resist any city attempt to sit at the union - management bargaining table, said Lynn. However, the "city's interests are directly involved and we feel it is only fair and proper to put you on notice that a scavenger strike could occur simply because the company refused to make a wage proposal on grounds the city refused to consider the related problem of rate increases," wrote Lynn.

City Manager Bill Edgar's position is that the city should not be drawn into the union - management talks and he feels Lynn is trying to do that with his letter to the city. The only thing which justifies another look at garbage rates is the higher costs of operation of the firm, though labor costs may be part of it, he satd.

Councilman Frank Brandes agrees with Edgar on that point, but criticized the city manager for not sending a copy of the Oct. 21 letter to the city council. "He didn't let the city council know there is a problem and that the staff is working on it," said Brandes.

Edgar told The Times that the letter on Oct. 21 was addressed to him. All it said was that there are increased costs at the garbage service and that Hirst wnated Edgar and the staff to go over financial data related to that. He felt referral to the city council then was not warranted.

Edgar received the union letter Wednesday and put it in the city council packets yesterday, including the earlier letter from Hirst and other related material.

Planner hits Sunol Blvd. traffic woes

PLEASANTON — A planning item devoted to building a landscape materials sales office on Sunol Boulevard turned into a springboard for Planning Commissioner Walt Wood's feelings about how well or how poorly the staff might be communicating with the commission.

Larry Billings and two partners want to build the sales outlet next to Casa Yerde Nursery, but something was amiss with the traffic design, according to Wood.

The front of the new business would be entirely open to Sunol Boulevard, a continual driveway with an infinite number of access places for cars. Because this part of Sunol Boulevard is the greatest U - turn spot in town, Wood was concerned about the wide open driveway.

Director of Engineering Services Don Sooby said he wasn't concerned about it, and Wood responded, "Man, a lot of you fellas (on the staff) have no concern about some things in this town. You're telling me there is no concern about opening up another 200 feet on Sunol Boulevard?"

Commissioner Gregg Doherty quickly added he shares Wood's concern about an "open door" along Sunol Boulevard. He has been there Saturday mornings and knows the traffic problems which arise there, he said.

Billings was cooperative with Wood and agreed to return to the commission next week with a plan to block off the open front so there are separate driveways for ingress and egress.

City investigates auto hangout

PLEASANTON — What appears to Councilman William Herlihy as an unauthorized "used car lot" will be investigated by the city staff.

Herlihy objected last week at the city council meeting to a number of cars parked next to the Union 76 station on Santa Rita Road near Stanley Boulevard.

"It looks like a used car lot or auto rental place and to my knowledge no one has applied for a permit for a use like that. It's the second time that has happened there," Herlihy told The Times.

"I talked to the staff a few months ago and got the cars removed, but the cars are back again," said Herlihy. "There's a big double decker bus parked there, too. I don't like used car lots on Main Street. I have an aversion to that."

The lot in question is on Santa Rita Road, but it really is an extension of Main Street, which ends at the Arroyo Del Valle.

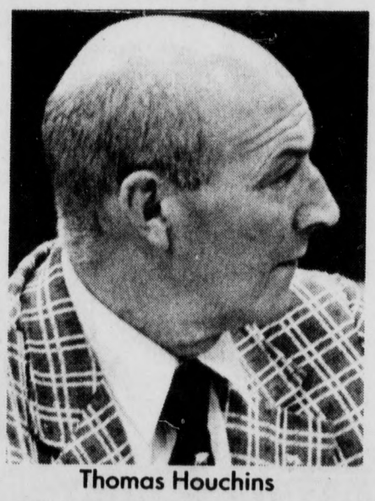
The city staff is still looking into the question, but Chuck Dorkin, leasee of the adjacent Union 76 station, had some information about the cars.

Dorkin runs a small rental car fleet of three or four cars for Bay Area Rent - a - Car, which operates out of Walnut Creek. He moved the cars to the other side of his gas station a few months ago at the request of the planning staff and took down the rental signs from their windshields.

However, moving the cars put them next to shrubs and a fence which at night provided cover for vandals to siphon gas out of the cars and steal car parts. Pleasanton police reportedly told Dorkin to move the cars back to the front of the property where there is good lighting and no cover. Vandalism stopped after he moved them back.

Other cars on the property in question belong to employes at the nearb Pleasanton Body Shop, whose driveway is not big enough to accomodate customers' cars and employes' cars, too. The bus belongs to a man who runs a part - time bus charter service.

Union Oil has a real estate sign on the property now, though it isn't clear what use would go in there. That is still to be determined said realtor Joe Ferrante.



Thomas Houchins

Score one for media over Houchins

Alameda County Bureau

County sheriff Thomas Houchins may take his fight against Santa Rita jail media access to the U.S. Supreme Court following denial of an appeal by the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals.

The court earlier this week upheld a superior court decision that ordered the sheriff to change his policy and admit reporters and their cameras and recording equipment into the jail.

Houchins was sued by public television station KQED (Channel 9) and the NAACP. The two argued that jails in other Bay Area counties allow reporters with cameras and recorders to interview inmates without a break in security or the prisoners' rights.

Houchins and undersheriff Glen Dyer were unavailable for comment yesterday, but county counsel Kelvin Booty said he has 14 days in which to request a rehearing of the appeal.

If the hearing is denied he said the sheriff would be back before the lower court with his plans for access, or would be petitioning the supreme court as the final arbitrator.

Booty will not speculate on the alternatives until the appellate court deals with the rehearing request.

The superior court held that reporters' constitutional rights were violated and ordered that they be permitted to interview inmates and use cameras and sound equipment in the jail.

Dublin zoning 'kicked'

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — Further arguments over rezoning some 20-acres off Dublin Boulevard and San Ramon Valley Road will not be heard until next year, county supervisors ruled yesterday.

The board continued the petition to reclassify the land from residential and administrative office space to general commercial. The continuance — a "kick" in government parlance — is routine.

Briar Hill and Silvergate Homeowners Association representatives have fought the change since it was first proposed last spring.

County supervisors agreed to postpone their decision until a general plan review for the valley is completed.

Public hearings on those plans and alternatives are scheduled for Nov. 9 at the county public works building, 399 Elmhurst Ave., Hayward, and Nov. 11 at Foothill High School.

Homeowners association representatives are expected to argue their case then and at subsequent, yet unscheduled hearings.

The final valley general plan probably will not be set until next year.

Double injury

Two women were injured yesterday afternoon when their car swerved off Highway 84 approximately four miles south of Livermore. Valley Memorial Hospital officials identified the twin sisters as Robin and Gwents Stewart, 19. No further details were available from hospital or Highway Patrol officials. Witnesses said the car rolled over, pinning the women inside until six men righted the vehicle. One woman was observed to have a gash across the bridge of her nose and the driver's side window was smashed out.

be ponds, probably the site of a one - time shallow well. But fairgrounds superintendent of building and grounds, Lou Alexander, promised yesterday morning that the rubble would be gone by afternoon. (At 4 p.m., it wasn't.)

Before July's county fair and county-wide strike of grounds workers, there was "nothing that was a soreye" in front of Woody Block, Alexander said.

Since then, he admitted, lumber from old concession stands and other discards have been dumped there. "It (a cleanup) has been in the works two months, but we haven't been able to get in here until now because the workers have been tied up with other things," he explained.

Harry Lefever, head of the Alameda County Resource Conservation District board, and his fellow board members take a different view of things. They say rubble has been there for a long time and lately has been getting worse.

"Three weeks ago, the fair manager told me, 'We're definitely going to clean it up,'" Lefever said yesterday. "They were supposed to start right away."

He's hoping the workers won't haul all that good lumber to the dump. But he reports Fair Manager Lee Hall told him the workers didn't have time to knock apart the well - built platforms and tables.

Despite their frustration over the rubble, Lefever and his fellow Resource Conservation District members refuse to paint fair officials as villains because it's only by the Fair board's good graces that Woody Block exists at all.

The board voted to purchase the acreage when the federal government was through with it so local students and agriculture experts could make use of it. They charge no rent for that corner of their valuable spread of land.

Neglected for about three years, Woody Block became the focus about a year ago of a revival project.

Mark Parson, an expert in forestry and range management, and a member of Livermore's Soil Conservation Service staff, is working with college intern Joe Mota to make Woody Block more useful than it has even been before.

Working with students from Livermore High and Palomares High in Castro Valley, they are cutting back the overgrown shrubs; making trails through the plot; labeling all the plants; and starting a compost heap.

They have a propagation area selected and plan to offer local ranchers free cuttings and advice.

By the time the dirt road past Woody Block is opened next summer to fair workers, Parson hopes to have barbed - wire fencing to keep out intruders, and a sign warning: WILDLIFE SANCTUARY.

And, he hopes, a little parking lot in front where the rubble lies now.

BART—new look board

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — It will be a whole new ball game for the Bay Area Rapid Transit District board of directors when they convene next month with two new members.

Voters returned incumbents Bob Allen of Livermore and Ella Hill Hutch and John Kirkwood of San Francisco, but ousted Oakland director Richard Clark.

The board, claim its critics — chief among them Allen — has been ruled by the five member clique from the metropolitan centers. Clark's replacement by Berkeley resident and San Francisco attorney Art Shartsis upsets their precarious balance of power and tips the scales to suburban representatives.

Central Contra Costa County voters gave the nod to businessman Barc Simpson, 55, with some 20 per cent of the vote in a field of 14 candidates. Simpson outpolled second place Nancy Rockeman by about 2,000 votes.

The board's votes nearly always are split 5-4 decisions with president Elmer Cooper and vice president Dr. Harvey Glasser joining Clark, Hutch and Kirkwood.

Clark was ousted following investigations by grand juries in Alameda and Contra Costa counties of questionable expense account policies by the board.

Clark, the board's president during 1975, authorized nearly $10,000 in reimbursements for himself in the first nine months of the year, and another $19,900 to current president Elmer Cooper.

The minority coalition tried unsuccessfully earlier this year to remove Cooper, spliting again on a 5-3 vote. (Former Contra Costa representative James Hill and resigned from the board to teach law in the mid-West.)

The flurry refused to die with the final vote, however. Then vice president Nello Bianco of Richmond, whose appointment was seen as a gesture toward unification, said he could not support Cooper and resigned his office.

At a hurried press conference outside the board room, he heaped unprintable abuse on his replacement, Dr. Glasser, accusing him of bringing "Chicago style" politics to the board.

The urban center coalition also had fought feeder bus service to the hinterlands of the two East Bay counties. But the latest state legislation extending the half - cent sales tax in the district guarantees bus service to the valley and eastern Contra Costa County.

Allen said he wants to increase evening bus runs from the Hayward BART station to one-hour intervals. They now run every two hours.

He also wants a $1 service charge for San Mateo County patrons who board at Daly City. San Mateo County residents pay neither the sales tax increment nor the property tax levy imposed on the three BART counties.

Allen would eliminate the half-cent tax and start a "high rise" tax on downtown office buildings that benefit most from BART. The core areas would be a "downtown slums" without the train system's daily flow of commuters, he said.

New vote count system fouled by lone worker

The best laid plans of mice and men often run afowl of — other men, to borrow and adopt from Robert Burns.

Alameda County dumped its hand - imprinted ballots from the Cubic Corp. this year in favor of a new, super speedy computerized ballot and tabulation system from Votomatic of Berkeley.

The new system spews forth four pages of print - out every 15 or 20 minutes with the complete breakdown of vote percentages in each contest and the latest tabulation of returns.

It runs the gamut from President to the smallest local ballot measure and often is so fast that new returns are ready before the press has finished with the old ones.

It would be the perfect system save for one flaw.

Man.

While the press and candidates' supporters waited anxiously for the "final - final" tabulation early Wednesday morning, one lone, as yet unidentified precinct worker from Berkeley took his ballots home.

Terse words followed a hurried 1 a.m. phone call as the propriety of the worker's act was questioned in no uncertain terms.

But he was adamant. He would not venture into the dangerous night even under threat of verbal abuse.

Registrar of voters Jim Riggs at last acquiesced and sent a contingent to retrieve the last ballots.

The "final - final" came sometime after 2:30 a.m. when the press and supporters had long since given up.

Foothill co-ed sights-in on side pocket

High school PE classes offer new world for feminine fads

"The times, they are a-changin'."

Where once it was "wear suits and report to the football field" or "badminton today in the gym", there now exists a whole new "world of physical education" that ranges from the standard exercise classes to co-ed flag football and pool— er, make that billiards.

Due at least in part to Title IX of the Government Code, physical education (and the total panorama of subjects and situations) in high schools is undergoing a metamorphosis.

Whether this is "progress" or trashing of traditional values could be debated until dawn's early light.

But, the fact is schools are now being ushered into an era where the high school student no longer MUST take four years of "P.E." or an equivalent activity.

In our era it was either P.E. or— shudder, shudder, ugh, yech!! Cadets. The latter was sort of a junior version of Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC) and was populated with bookish and/or sickly types.

But today, the choice of physical activities is endless— if one cares about working up a sweat. And better (or worst, depending on your point of view) yet, most of these activities can now be participated in with members of the opposite sex.

Take the Amador Valley Joint High School District for example.

Two schools, Amador and Dublin, have had co-ed PE for the past few years and Foothill has joined them, now that they have a senior class.

Resident co-ed PE instructors at Foothill are Dan Chiolis and Vicky Dolsby.

A total of 70 seniors are presently enrolled with the 90 minute sessions on an every - other - day basis or a total of five times every two weeks.

The only book in this course is the roll book.

Prime order of the day is to show up, draw down a cue stick, putter, racket or bowling ball. Chiolis' class most recently spent a class period at Norm Volponi's Sidepocket on North L in Livermore.

Chiolis' class and that of Vicky Dolsby's have been miniature golfing at the Fairgrounds, the Muirwood tennis courts and Danville Bowl.

Ms. Dolsby's class has played flag football— an activity that was participated in by "boys-only" until recent years.

But the co-ed PE course description is still being written.

Possible future activities for senior boys and girls include trampoline, tennis, table or paddle tennis, horseshoes, ice skating and roller skating.

Chiolis notes that the teaching staff at Foothill is in the process of re-doing the entire physical education program at the school. Starting in '77, schools will simply title courses "P.E." and drop the boys or girls designation.

Which is all well and good, depending on your viewpoint.

But if the day ever arrives when those designations are taken off the locker rooms, you can be sure there'll be some long and loud screaming— though not necessarily from students.

Chiolis sees many positive things in the implementation of co-ed P.E. activities, one being the cost factor. Students can now learn new sports and for a fraction of what they would spend if they went to the Side Pocket, or Granada Bowl or Fairways Miniature Golf.

"It's a good setup for a lot of kids with different backgrounds," says Chiolis. "We have some football players in this class, a couple of guys who are archery nuts and others who are just good, average kids."

Chiolis believes school districts in general will have to make massive changes in curriculum. "We in the Amador district are going to have to do a lot of work with our core program, especially at the frosh-soph level."

He believes that if the core program is sufficiently challenging and well - planned, students will opt for the wide variety of P.E. offerings in their senior year, when P.E. is no longer mandatory.

Oh, about that co-ed flag football program. Mary Ann Paz is now conducting the class but the kids also participate in volleyball and soccer as a change of pace.

....and do you ever get the feeling you were born 10, 20 or 30 years too soon!

Rookie's horns of plenty

PLEASANTON— As Julia Cunningham has found out, it takes some luck just to get into the game.

And Julia's "game" is hunting big game, which brought the 16-year old Amador Valley High student her first "trophy" recently — the horns the horns of a moose she bagged while in Jim Bridger National Forest in Wyoming.

Though a neophyte to hunting of bigger game, she has gone into the field for pheasant in the past.

Julia was one of several hundred out of thousands applying to receive a license to hunt moose. She made the most of her good fortune and, as a result, the horns now occupy a spot of honor in the Cunningham residence on Tannet Court.

Success proves elusive for SRV office seekers

DANVILLE — Claudia Nemir was elected to her second term on a non - existent city council Tuesday.

Although Mrs. Nemir has gained the most votes in the last two San Ramon Valley town council elections, there has never been a town to serve in. Measure K, which would have incorporated the San Ramon Valley into one town, was defeated.

Mrs. Nemir and 14 other candidates ran for the council on the chance that incorporation would pass.

The final vote tallies on Wednesday gave Mrs. Nemir 9,236 votes. Next highest was Don Sledge with 7,513. Those two would have held four - year terms on the council.

The next three highest vote - getters, who would each have served two years on the council, were Gene Rolandelli, 6,869 votes; Robert Bush, 6,138; and Norm Roberts, 5,623.

The other 10 candidates finished in this order: Sandra Dickinson, with 5,396 votes; John Meakin, 4,791; James Miller, 3,651; Angleo Lucido, 3,375; Carole Steinberg, 3,005; John Pike, 2,610; Howard Miles, 2,540; Ron Allio, 2,070; Janice Ross, 2,054; and William Failing, 993.

Defeat of the incorporation proposal was especially hard on some council candidates who spent their own money on their campaigns.

Incumbents proved tough to beat

MARTINEZ — Final voting figures send Contra Costa's two state senators back to Sacramento with overwhelming support.

State Sen. John Nejedly, R - Walnut Creek, representing most of the county, and State Sen. Nicholas Petris, D - Oakland, representing Lafayette, Moraga and Orinda, both coasted to easy victories Tuesday.

Nejedly formerly had the entire county in his district, but gave up Lafayette, Moraga, and Orinda to Petris in the 1973 reapportionment.

First elected to the senate in a special 1969 election, Nejedly outpaced Democratic challenger Richard Beserra by nearly a 2-to-1 margin, 136,777 votes to 73,437.

Beserra, originally viewed as a strong candidate, had trouble striking a responsive chord with the voters. His campaign was further hampered when an arsonist - set fire destroyed his home and law office early in the campaign.

Failing to find issues generating voter excitement, Beserra attacked Nejdly's leadership abilities—a move considered a mistake by some campaign observers considering Nejedly's wide base of support in the area.

Towards the end of the campaign, he began to hit on specific issues, using examples of Nejedly's voting record and pointing out some of Nejedly's campaign contributors.

Nejedly campaigned on his legislative record—he led the senate during the last session with 42 bills to his credit—and announced plans for new legislation.

American Independent Party candidate Michael Dietrich, who did not run an active campaign, finished a distant third in the race with 4,984 votes.

Nejedly termed his victory margin "a little larger than I expected."

He said he thought he would lose some support because of the reapportionment.

Although Petris lost the Contra Costa portion of his district to Republican Marvin Lichtenthal 14,648 to 14,933, Alameda County voters came out solidly for the 10 - year senate veteran, giving him a two - county total of 129,461 to 50,245.

Peace and Freedom Party candidate Shirley Thurston Lee finished at the bottom of the ballot with 2,950 votes.

Petris said he was "delighted" with the outcome, even though he didn't carry the Contra Costa portion of his distirct.

No telling how many couldn't vote

Lesher News Bureau

MARTINEZ — Election officials still don't know how many Contra Costans turned out to vote Tuesday only to find they were not legally registered.

Before the election, Lon Underwood, county elections officer, estimated that as many as 500 people could have been victims of unofficials post card voter registrars who failed to mail the cards in by the Oct. 4 deadline.

Underwood said his office did not keep track of the number of complaints Tuesday, but he said he took 12 calls himself from irate citizens who would not accept the explanation given by election office staffers.

Two of the larger voter registration drives in the county were done by the Democratic Party and proponents of Proposition 14.

Underwood does not know yet how many voters were successfully registered by post card this year, but he said they would number in the thousands.

Political groups were not the only to use post card registration.

Underwood said some business firms picked up cards for their employes, many people called the elections office and asked that cards be mailed out, and cards were handed out at many government offices.

Underwood said he received post cards right up to election day. People had filled the cards out before the deadline, he said, but the groups mailing the cards in had missed the deadline.

"There was nothing I could do," Underwood said. "The law says I must receive the cards 29 days before the election."

One irate would-be voter, Howard Roberts of Concord, said he registered with supporters of Proposition 14 at the SunValley Mall. He told them he was against the proposition.

Roberts said the group called him at home later to ask if he still was opposed. He told them he was.

After going to the polls Tuesday, he discovered the post card registration form he had filled out had never been mailed in.

Path clear for new jail

DANVILLE — School officials believe they can't afford not to have smoke detection systems in all of the San Ramon Valley Unified School District's 18 schools.

The district will apply for a $360,000 federal grant to install the warning system.

Supt. Allan Peteesdorf admits the district's chances of getting the grant are slim.

Pleasanton school board authorizes repair projects

PLEASANTON— Continuing problems with the air - conditioning system at Fairlands School and repairs necessary to the district warehouse facility at Camp Parks were acted upon by Pleasanton Joint School District trustees Wednesday night.

Board members authorized the staff to implement recommendations of a consulting engineer regarding the mechanical system at Fairlands. Trustees approved expenditure of $12,000 for the repairs.

Trustees learned there are no recoverable damages.

Word of the financial arrangement to cover costs of repairs to the warehouse came in a letter to the district from the Department of the Army. The Pleasanton and Amador districts now pay $4,800 each a year rent for the warehouse facility at Parks.

The Army says it will deduct expenses for repairs from the annual rent.

The board also approved distribution of additional maintenance funds, with the landscaping project at Vintage Hills School assigned top priority and given $5,924. Other projects funded include a joint project with parents at Harvest Park School to complete the retaining wall at the amphitheater ($2,000); additional paving in mud areas and sprinkler system in kindergarten play yard at Fairlands ($2,000); emergency interior lighting at Harvest Park School ($1,050).

A project submitted by Alisal School to cover the patio area in "C" Pod and estimated to cost $5,000 was rejected.

Board members also learned the district's entitlement for Title IV-B of Elementary and Secondary Educational Act (ESEA) for 1976-77 is $12,128.

The district's Title IV-B evaluation team recommended funding of the following projects; Resource center at Alisal, $3,475; reading lab— second funding— at Pleasanton, $3,350; author's program at Harvest Park, $1,900; seventh - eighth grade reading labe at Pleasanton, $1,122; industrial arts at Harvest Park, $1,000; industrial arts at Pleasanton, $500; seventh grade testing at Harvest Park, $400; mandate, Fairlands, $381.

Action was also taken on an allocation of $9,383 for cooperative that includes the Pleasanton and Amador districts. $2,893 of this would go to the science program at Dublin High School, $1,950 to science - math at Amador, $1,885 to math at Dublin, $1,735 to English at Foothill and $920 to math at Amador.

In other business, Dennis Reidy was given the oath of office as trustee. He will serve through March of 1977.

Trustees approved a list of substitute teachers containing 130 names.

The board will meet in special session Tuesday, Nov. 16 at 7:30 p.m. to review the district music program.

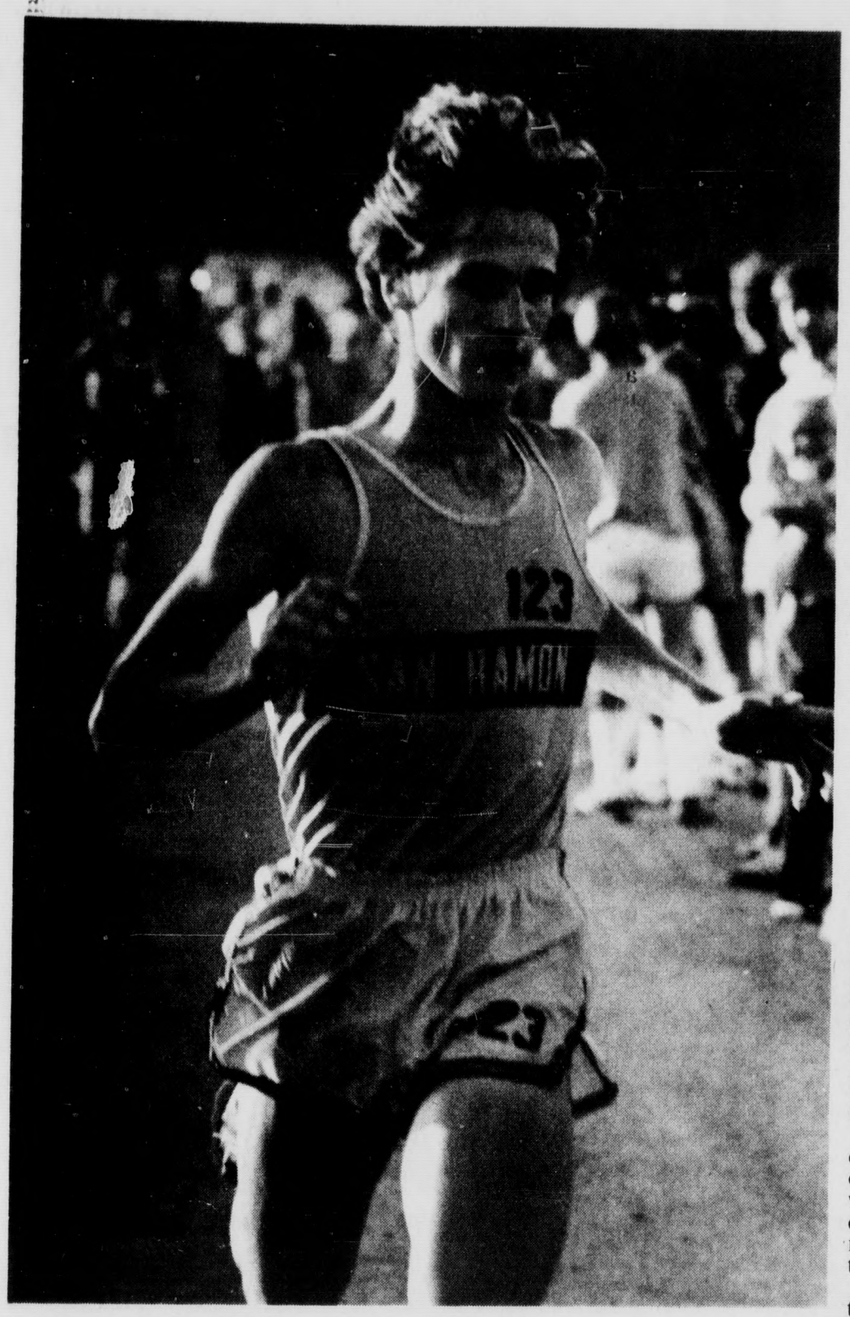
Daley sisters lead Mats to crown



San Ramon's Mark Baker strides home the winner in boys' varsity competition. (Times photos by Mike Macor)

LAFAYETTE —It was a "Family Affair" at the East Bay Athletic League cross-country championships yesterday afternoon here at the Lafayette Reservoir.

At least that's the way it appeared in the girls' varsity race.

Granada's Arlene Daley, just a junior, took the lead halfway through the race and coasted to an impressive 12:03 clocking over the two-mile course. Arlene's sister Karen, a senior finished fourth with a 12:35 time. Wendy Behrbaum of Amador Valley was second in 12:21 and Patti Allen of Dublin was third in 12:31

"The longer the better," Arlene laughed after the race. "Wendy beat me before but that was on a shorter course and I'm better on a long course than on a short one."

The Matador girls won the team championship easily with 25 points. Amador was second with 47 and Livermore third with 68. No other team had enough competitors to qualify for the team title.

Other than the Granada romp in the girls' varsity, it was almost a San Ramon - dominated meet.

The Wolves won the boys' varsity title as Mark Baker of San Ramon took the individual title over the three-mile course in 14:48. San Ramon had 36 points to 74 for Livermore and 81 for Amador. Granada was fourth with 93 and Foothill fifth with 111.

"This was my best over-all race of the year," the confident Baker said. "It was a hard course with lots of hills and that made it really fast going down them.

"The pace was slower than I expected," the Wolf junior went on. "I stayed behind the leaders until about halfway through the race on the flat lands. When I saw the slow pace I took the lead."

Baker was confident his team would do well in the Valley 3-A meet next week.

"Our team has an excellent chance there," he said. "I know Pleasant Hill is really strong but I'm not sure about the overall outlook of the meet. But we did really well today."

Indeed they did. San Ramon placed three other harriers in the top 10. Jim Anklam was sixth in 15:21, Brett Baffert eighth in 15:28 and Jason Preese 10th in 15:40.

Rob Wentroth of Livermore came through with a fine 15:53 effort for second place.

San Ramon also won the boys' junior varsity competition with and the girls' frosh-soph action. The Wolves took second in the boys' frosh-soph competition with 57 points. California's young standouts won the team title in the boys' frosh-soph competition with 37 points.

Dennis McDonald of Amador won the boys' frosh-soph race in 10:50 (two-mile course. However, Tim Ballard of California was second in 10:54 and Bob Brasesco of the Grizzlies third with a 10:56 clocking.

"It was a good course," said McDonald happily after the race. "There sure were plenty of hills."

Lori Allio paced the Wolves' effort in the girls' frosh-soph competition as she came home first in 12:43. The San Ramon easily won the frosh-soph race because it was the only school with enough entrants to qualify as a team.

San Ramon just barely edged out Amador in the junior varsity race. The Wolves garnered 34 points to 35 for the Dons. California was the only other complete team entered as the Grizzlies scored 86 points.

Jeff Parks of Amador Valley won the junior varsity individual title with a 11:10 clocking over two miles. He beat out Steve Little of California who was timed in 11:12. Mark Johnsen of San Ramon was third in 11:14.

Agent draft

Six A's picked

NEW YORK — Six of Oakland's former top players made the shopping lists of the maximum 12 teams in Thursday's free agent re-entry draft. But the important thing is which of the interested clubs will buy.

The first-ever re-entry draft went off smoothly and will undoubtedly be extremely profitable for more than a dozen players and one lucky agent, Jerry Kapstein.

Kapstein represents 10 of the best free agents. All of his stable drew a lot of support on Thursday:

— Gene Tenace, formerly of Oakland, is a hard-hitting catcher, the only free agent receiver available. He was the first of the 24 free agents to be selected by 12 teams, thus removing him from the drafting list. He was picked by the Chicago Cubs and Kansas City on the first round and was gone from the eligibility list in the middle of the third round.

— Don Baylor, formerly of Oakland, is a fleet outfielder. He was picked by Texas on the first round and was selected for the 12th time in the fourth round.

— Joe Rudi, formerly of Oakland, is possibly the best defensive outfielder available. He was chosen by the most teams on the first round — the Chicago White Sox, San Diego, California, Pittsburgh, Baltimore and Philadelphia. His eligibility was gone in the fourth round.

— Rollie Fingers, formerly of Oakland, is a top-notch righthanded relief pitcher. He was chosen by San Francisco in the first round and lost his eligibility in the sixth round.

— Bert Campaneris, formerly of Oakland, is a slick-fielding shortstop who was chosen by 11 teams, none in the first round.

— Dave Cash, formerly of Philadelphia, is a solid second baseman who was not picked in the first round but was chosen by his 12th team in the eighth round.

— Bobby Grich, formerly of Baltimore, is regarded as the best infielder available. Three clubs — Detroit, Oakland and the New York Yankees — made him the No. 1 pick. He is said to be asking for $2 million.

— Don Gullett, formerly of Cincinnati, is the best left-handed pitcher available. Los Angeles made him its No. 1 pick. Gullett's eligibility was exhausted in the fifth round.

— Wayne Garland, formerly of Baltimore, is the best righthanded starter in the draft. He was picked by Cleveland in the first round and was taken off the eligibility list in the sixth round.

— Doyle Alexander, formerly of the Yankees, flirted with several no-hitters this season. He lost his eligibility in the 10th round.

So Kapstein is negotiating for 10 of the top free agents, nine of whom may dicker with 12 clubs — plus their former team. The non-Kapstein players who received the maximum attention were Sal Bando, a third baseman, also formerly of Oakland; Bill Campbell, a top reliever from Minnesota; Gary Matthews, a well-rounded outfielder from San Francisco, and Reggie Jackson, the slugging outfielder from Baltimore who played most of his career with Oakland.

Charles O. Finley, Oakland's owner, bid on Jackson and said he wants to sign Rudi, Fingers, Tenace, Bando, Campaneris and Baylor.

"It's like having someone come into your house and snatching up your children," said Finley. "It is unfair.

"We spend millions developing these players. We give them a bonus. We nurse them through the minors. We develop them at a great expense over a period of maybe 10 to 12 years.

"Then, bang! Just like that, they are taken away."

The days Finley longs for are gone, however, thanks to Peter Seitz' historic arbitration decision last year. Seitz ruled in the Andy Messersmith-Dave McNally case that a player becomes a free agent by not renewing his contract. The process takes one year. Historically, the teams kept the rights to their players until they were cut or traded.

It is unlikely Finley will sign his former players, who, except for Bando and Jackson, are now in Kapstein's hands.

Jackson wouldn't tip his hand about his future team, nor would he confirm or deny the $3 million figure for five years.

Warriors beaten

OAKLAND — Remember Doug Collins?

White male, 6-5, 180 pounds, blond hair-almost the hero of the 1972 Olympics Basketball team?

Well, last night, playing behind his more publicized Philadelphia 76er teammates Julius Erving and George McGinnis, Collins before a sellout crowd at the Coliseum Arena, Collins scored 26 points to lead the 76ers to a 101-96 win over the Golden State Warriors.

"He's a smart player, he plays both ends of the court," said Warriors coach Al Attles. "He turned the game around for them."

While McGinnis scored 22 points and grabbed 14 rebounds Erving, bascially responsible for the large crowd, had an off night and hit for just 19.

Rick Barry paced the Warriors, scoring 28 points and picking up eight assists. The Warriors' multiple center attack continued to pay dividends as rookie Robert Parish hauled in 10 rebounds with Clifford Ray grabbing eight.

Dublin stays alive in spiker race

Dublin High came from far behind to knock off pesky Livermore, 8-15, 15-8, 15-8, in East Bay Athletic League Girls Volleyball action yesterday in Dublin.

The win kept Dublin's hopes of at least a title tie alive, with a makeup match against tough Monte Vista the only obstacle next Tuesday in Dublin.

"After that first game, I thought, 'Oh no,'" an exuberant Dublin coach Sue Shoemaker admitted after the tight win. The Gaels, despite losing the first game, had to erase a 7-2 Livermore lead in the final set to take the all - important win.

Livermore, playing tough against the league's best teams like they have done all season long, surprised everyone by taking an impressive 15-8 first set win.

Paula Ng picked up six points on serves while Diana Newell added three as the fired - up 'Pokes forced Dublin to play tough.

But Dublin roared out to an 8-0 lead in the second set, as Linda Finco scored on five straight serves. After an exchange of volleys, Linda Doyal added three serve points while Joanne Callender spiked an excellent far right corner shot.

Livermore rallied back to make it 8-5 on Carol Young's five serve points. But Finco and Doyal came through again for Dublin, with Finco garnering four serve points and Doyal three as Dublin wrapped up the second set win.

"They just held together and kept attacking them," Shoemaker said of her team's rebound. "This was the best game I've seen them play. I was just a total team effort, I'd like to compliment the whole team."

The Gaels made life miserable for Shoemaker again in the third set, though, as the 'Pokes romped out to a 7-2 lead on Ng's serving.

But an incredible sense of unawareness overcame the 'Pokes as the Gaels regained the volley. Missing seemingly everything and anyhting anything hit to their side of the net, Livermore lost composure and Dublin was quick to capitalize.

Kathie Center served for seven consecutive Dublin points, and as quickly as the 'Pokes moved in front, tbe Gaels regained the lead.

After Livermore picked up a point on Newell's serve, Alicia Crumpler took over serving duties for Dublin and again the 'Pokes couldn't buy a setup. When they did get the ball over the net, the line was usually called for a "miss hit," where the hands or arm touches the ball for too long a period of time.

Crumpler's points made it 13-8, and after both teams exchanged volleys, the Gaels finished off Livermore on Karen Jewell's long spike and Doyal's serve points.

"We're coming out of our slump now," Shoemaker explained. The Geals' last test will come against the vastly-improved Mustangs. "I think our chances our great," the coach said. "We beat them the last time we played."

The second meeting between the two teams was postponed when no officials showed up at the gym for the game. Dublin has a 10-3 record and Livermore finished the season at 6-8.

In other EBAL volleyball action Amador defeated Granada, 13-15, 15-12, 15-8.

Granada's chances were hurt when star Lynn Kranich was hurt late in the first game. The Matadors recovered to win the first tilt but Kranich's absence was felt greatly in the ensuming two matches which the Dons won.

Kim Libert led the Dons' scoring with 16 points in the three sets. She scored 13 of those in the final two. Mary Ledezma and Lisa Bonetti played well for the losers.

Carmen Macon also had an outstanding all-around game for Amador.

Amador Valley won the junior varsity contest, 15-5, 10-15, 15-13.

The Dons displayed a well - balanced offense throughout the match.

SR, Dons compete in water polo invitational

CONCORD — San Ramon and Amador Valley high schools of the East Bay Athletic League will compete in the Independent Water Polo League Invitational at Concord Community Pool here today.

The competition is a double-elimination tournament.

The Invitational will complete its schedule Saturday.

First match today pits round-robin champion San Ramon against Pinole Valley at 12:30. Antioch and Pacific of San Leandro tangle at 1:30, Amador takes on Tennyson at 2:30 and Clayton Valley plays Alameda in the first-round finale at 3:30.

San Ramon, with a 7-1 record in round-robin action, looms as the team favorite for the title. However, Pinole Valley, Tennyson and Amador Valley could also surprise in the competition.

Amador Valley finished 3-5 in round-robin play and Tennyson was second in the league.

Official sanctioning of the tournament was given yesterday by the North Coast Section. The North Coast Section has no sectional playoffs in water polo. The Central Coast Section has had playoffs in that sport for several years and its teams are ranked among the best in the nation annually. Several East Bay Area teams compete against Central Coast teams in various invitational tournaments each season.

Stockton tops Tri-Valley

Stockton's junior hockey team snuck eight of its overwhelming 57 shots past an over-worked Hans Negd to gain an 8-0 Squirt A victory over Tri-Valley.

Visalia was even more explosive, slamming 67 shots at Tri-Valley's Chris Huck to win the PeeWee A game, 16-0. Brett Rankin, Frederick Omaque and Scott Irwin did well for T-V despite the overwhelming defeat.

In PeeWee AA, Joey Burke scored his first goal in NorCal play and Shawn Picotte added two as Tri-Valley tied Berkeley, 3-3. Guy Harmon and Duke Chaves each had an assist while goalie Phillip Patrick had 23 saves.

Ken Stevens hat trick for Tri-Valley's Bantam A squad wasn't enough as T-V fell, 6-5, to Visalia. Craig Collin added a goal and an assist while Mark Weigand scored once and Terry Montanez assisted.

Steve Robello had 15 saves.

Greg Hickey had 14 saves, but Tri-Valley's Midget AA team lost to Sun Valley, 5-2.

In the only other game, Tri-Valley's Midget A team, suiting up just seven players, because of a rash of injuries, was blitzed by Santa Rosa 18-0. Goalie Dennis Hayes was faced with the near - impossible task of stopping 79 shots-on-goal.

Lyle, Young prepare for key match-up

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Ron Lyle and Jimmy Young, meeting Saturday in a heavyweight fight of uncertain significance, both are sure where they want to go.

"My trip is to become the heavyweight champion of the world," says Lyle.

"I'm looking for a victory, then willing to fight anyone in eliminations," says Young.

The elimination fights, of course, would be to determine the new world heavyweight champion if Muhammad Ali goes through with his announced retirement. The two highly ranked fighters featured in Saturday's nationally televised (ABC) 12-round bout at the San Francisco Civic Auditorium will be punching for the right to join the likes of George Foreman and Ken Norton in such a fight-off.

Young gave Ali a scare in a title fight, losing a decision. Lyle also had a shot at the title, lasting 11 rounds. In a Lyle-Young bout early last year, Young was the winner in a 10-rounder.

"I know about Jimmy now, I didn't then," says Lyle, the fighter from Denver who was in prison from age 18 until he was 25. He's 34 now, the same age as Ali, but says he hasn't thought of retirement because of one big difference: "Ali is a millionaire and I ain't got a quarter."

Young, 28, is the third ranking contender and has fought four previous bouts this year. Lyle is ranked fourth.

"Maybe I'm a little stronger and punch a little better now," Young said in comparing himself to the heavy who decisioned Lyle on Feb. 11, 1975. "But I'm not going to fight any differently.

"I plan to use my head and be careful. He was the most aggressive in the first fight. I had more speed," added the Philadelphian.

Don gymnasts win EBAL championship

Amador Valley High School's girls gymnastics team captured the East Bay Athletic League championship with a tight 136-128 victory over visiting Granada yesterday.

"It was a real team effort," said Amador coach Vivian Straight. "The key was our performances in the novice and beginners' divisions.

Indeed they were.

Amador won the novice competition, 48-32 and the beginners' division, 49-31.

Granada came back to win the intermediate division 41-39 and the advanced competition 24-0 (Amador had no competitors in that division) but the early margin builk up by the Dons was too great to overcome.

Donna Fox and Diane Carson each won three of four events in the novice competition to get the Dons off to an early lead. All the Don athletes won their beam events. In intermediate competition Brenda Cox and Carmen Lincome held off the Granada rally as they both garnered two wins against two loses for Amador Valley.

In another EBAL meet Monte Vista, which lost to Amador Valley last week because of the novice division results, got some strong performances in that division yesterday and defeated San Ramon 155-65.

Gretha Andermahn and Melady Barton each won three events for the Mustangs in the novice class. Andermahn took the vault, beam and free exercise competitions.

Monte Vista cleaned up in the advanced division as Joline Gaffney and Kathy Chapman each won all their events by forfeit. San Ramon had no advanced division competitors.

In intermediate action Ann Wyatt sparked Monte Vista with four wins. She took the beams, bars, floor exercise and vaulting.

The beginners' competition was tied 40-40 as neither team could dominate the other.

The EBAL Tournament will be held November 20 at Amador Valley's gym. The top five competitors from that meet advance to the North Coast Section meet at Ygnacio Valley High School in Concord.

Bowling tourney opens

The Twelfth Annual Livermore Valley Bowling Tournament opens its seven-weekend run tomorrow at the Granada Bowl.

The tournament, sponsored by Caratti Jewelers, has lured a record number of entries for this year's $11,000 event. That prize money will be available to 3500 bowlers involved in team, doubles and singles events.

Opening ceremonies will take place at approximately 2:45 p.m. with sponsor Rich Caratti rolling the first ball. A girl scout color guard will present the colors.

Mayor Helen Tirsell will be in attendance as will Kathy Buddle, president of the Alameda County Women's Bowling Association and Bob Jones, president of the men's organization.

John B. Edmands, Editor and Publisher

Now the real work begins

The voters of San Ramon Valley decided once again that incorporation is not for them; but the challenge to bring "home rule" and local influence onto the East Bay's fastest - growing area is now even more critical.

Livermore again rejected a tax override for "badly needed" expansion of police and fire services, and thereby served notice on all local agencies that the peoples' demand for economy in government is our overriding concern.

In Alameda County's First Supervisorial District, Valerie Raymond rejected the old "politics as usual" standard and enough people in Livermore and Pleasanton, in Dublin and in Fremont agreed with her to score one of the more startling upsets in recent South County history.

There are those who argue "John Murphy simply threw it away," but that is an argument for the past. The future belongs to Ms. Raymond, and the Valley which she has stoutly defended in so very many battles will now look to her for leadership in a great confusion of issues that have divided these several communities for too many years.

In San Ramon, the election of Eric Hasseltine to the Contra Costa County board of supervisors was an exciting victory for the "rural south" of that huge fifth district. Mr. Hasseltine is a San Ramon home owner and Livermore job holder who can together with Ms. Raymond — help bring county government to a greater understanding of these hinterland expanses at the tail end of two highly urbanized counties.

We have had "a friend" in other courts with Robert Allen on Bay Area Rapid Transit, S. Floyd Mori in the State Assembly and Fortney "Pete" Stark in the United States Congress. Happily, all three of those representatives have been returned to office. Hopefully, they will see the value now in working together, to bring common sense to problems and enlightened leadership to a new generation of ideas.

But let no one believe that "the growth issue" has now been resolved or even shelved with defeat of that Valley Pipeline. The serious problem of downtstream pollution still exists; we are still confronted with the mandate to correct that pollution, only now we will also face costly state penalties , and perhaps also a state - imposed answer even less attractive than the proposal just rejected.

Meanwhile, the growth in San Ramon Valley will go on and on, unrestrained by any such waste - disposal restraint, and now beyond the control of any local government.

Yes, it was an exciting election, with lots of "good winners." But the winners had better be intelligent leaders if this Valley is to preserve what we have, and stay on top of our tomorrows.

How sweet it is

Valerie Raymond and Eric Hasseltine should be feeling mighty good today.

Building from "small" bases in Livermore and in San Ramon, these two "novices" took on a couple of political giants to score big victories in the First Supervisorial District of Alameda County, and Contra Costa's Fifth Supervisorial District.

Hasseltine had to beat out a former mayor of Antioch, and offset the populous north end of that big Fifth District, to score his upset.

Raymond is that rare activist who tested the supervisorial waters four years ago, and took that defeat as a challenge to broaden her political base for a second try in that sprawling four - community First District. Her victory was, beyond everything else, due to her own persistence. She is quite a woman; that was some triumph!

Truck traffic

Let's face it — Nobody loves a truck, until we really need one, which is more often that most of us care to admit.

Trucks are essential to industry, to retail commerce, to that new patio for the yard or the furniture for the living room. We must learn to live with "local truck traffic."

We do not, however, need to live with the problem of "through traffic" that finds large trucks and heavy volumes of passenger cars passing through our neighborhood en route to some distant destination simply because "that's currently the only route available."

Livermore has always been saddled with the burden of Highway 84 traffic flowing from the South Bay down Holmes and First streets seeking access to I-580 to Tracy and beyond. That is an unreasonable, unacceptable burden, and the City of Livermore has been working with Supervisor Murphy toward development of a bypass via extension of Isabel Avenue.

Pleasanton has the problem of the gravel trucks. Here is an important, local industry but one that relates 99 percent with markets in Oakland and Santa Clara County. Most of those trucks reach outside markets by travelling down Stanley to First Street; some still find their way to Santa Rita Road and thence to the Tassajara interchange with I-580.

Neither of those routes are acceptable, long - term answers for heavy commercial traffic, and neither should be tolerated . . . not when an alternative is available.

The development of El Charro Road from Stanley to I-580 would provide considerable relief for congested Pleasanton streets, particularly should the city have the courage to force all through truck traffic onto that new bypass.

Home owners along Santa Rita and Tassajara roads are disturbed about the prospect of "more truck traffic." Some of that flow is local, necessary and unavoidable. Much of it however could be diverted via the Valley Avenue extension east to El Charro, and north to I-580.

Before the city goes blissfully ahead allowing more industrial or warehouse development east from Santa Rita Road and into the Kaiser - Busch properties, there should be a clear understanding as to what the city's plan is for alternative industrial routes. The people have a right to know; and until they do, they have a right to be damned good and mad.

FOCUS/Murray-San Ramon

A planning matter

The saga of two school districts, Mury and San Ramon, continues to amaze ... So close yet so far apart in the problems facing their respective administrations and school boards.

On the one hand we see a report that says the San Ramon district might need as many as six more schools by the mid-1980s. And just a few miles south the Murray district continues to decline in enrollment.

But that is just one of the paradoxes.

While San Ramon struggles to keep on top of the rapid growth in the southern portion, it is beset by a disastrous fire that leaves a southern area school almost totally inoperable, and has continuing structural problems at California High, there is a strong sense of control and cooperative effort being exhibited by the administration, parents and children in that district.

While parents in the Murray district are no less supportive, the fact remains the district has some severe, on-going problems. And that is aside from the current volatile atmosphere surrounding teacher contract negotiations. For one, the district's involvement in attempting to build a new school (in the face of declining enrollment figures) has been a financial boondoggle from beginning to present. The latest school site that stands empty is the Dolan site on Castillian in Dublin. The district has poured hundreds of thousands of dollars in planning and site preparation monies into the Dolan site and now cannot build on it.

Why?

Because of declining enrollment and failure to pass a bond issue (for construction on that site) last March.

But what happened to bond monies remaining from the successfull '72 bond? That has been answered in bits and pieces over the past year or more. Suffice to say that a portion has been approved by the State Allocations Board for payment of planning fees on the proposed solar energy system for that ill-fated Dolan site school.

Previously, the district paid off approximately a quarter of a million dollars to district architect James Aitken for planning of that school. Aitken has been district architect since the early days of the district but the relationship apparently is about to be severed.

While this has been occurring, the district has managed to look the other way while a much smaller "white elephant" fell into disrepair — the Dublin School pool. Any takers?? The district hasn't had any yet.

Causing further pressure is the impending retirement of business manager Phillip Chubb. Though he has earned retirement, Chubb is not leaving at the best of times (Dec. 1, in the middle of the school year). Chubb also chose to take three weeks vacation during October, after announcing his retirement.

About the same time, Superintendent Donald Williams had a relapse of a heart condition. He has yet to come back.

We believe that with far better planning, the Murray district wouldn't be in the straits it finds itself today. The district could use those funds put unwisely into the Dolan planning and site improvement in other areas today — like giving teachers the increases they deserve and making improvements to Donlon School.

Letters to the Times

Valerie's victory

Editor, The Times:

I would like to congratulate Valerie Raymond on winning her race for Supervisor of the First District.

I have nothing but admiration for Valerie or any person that can reach such heights in such a short time in a very hardfought battle. I believe she is an inspiration for any person who enters politics.

I do not agree with all of Valerie's beliefs, and I may not in the future. But for the next four years I pledge my whole hearted support and ask the rest of the First District to give her a chance and do the same.

City's fast action

Copy of a letter —
Mr. Alan B. Campbell
City of Pleasanton

Thank you so very much for responding to my letter of October 18.

I must apologize for being so terse. I am from Oakland originally and am not used to getting such a quick response. I have not seen the signs that were posted, but a friend of mine has seen them. The fact is that I live more in the middle of the tract and I do not get to either end.

I was also actually expecting signs at each entrance. But if your department and the police department feel that signs at the front and the end of the tract are sufficient, then I agree wholeheartedly.

We did have a few riders in last week but they rode right in and out again.

Again I apologize and thank you very much not just for my family but for all of the homeowners in the tract. The safety of the kids is so very important to all of us, and with having such a well maintained park around makes living in Pleasanton a real treat for us.

Home teaching defended

Editor, The Times:

I wish to thank Pat Kennedy for her interest in Home Teaching in the Livermore school system. However, a paragraph was lost someplace between Mrs. Kennedy's interview with me and the story published in The Times on October 28. I would like to clarify the statements in the article.

1. I was referring primarily to E.H. Home Teaching when I was quoted as saying the California State law which limits home teaching to only five hours a week is "crazy." E.H. children are those with average or above IQ's but who, because of a specific learning disability and/or behavioral problems, can't make it in a regular classroom. Since the Livermore School District has an excellent program in almost every school to meet the specific individualized needs of E.H. children under the department of Special Education. E.H. Home Teaching is recommended as a last resort. It is done on a short-term basis in the one-to-one student-teacher ratio, through more concentrated on-going indepth diagnostic teaching sessions. Since return to the regular classroom is the goal of all E.H. classes, E.H. Home Teaching is used to expedite the process in special cases. Continuation is reviewed every two months, or in extraordinary circumstances, more often by the District Evaluation and Placement Committee. This committee is headed by Mrs. Loonie, Coordinator of Special Education, and includes a School Nurse, a Speech Therapist, a District Psychologist, the E.H. teacher, the Home Teacher, and the parents.

2. I have been an E.H. Home Teacher in Livermore for two years and am much impressed by:

(a) The innovative way Home Teaching is used for E.H. children. Depending on the special needs of the child and his family, it can be done at the home, the school site, or even at the public library, with State Department of Education approval.

(b) The recognition by the District administrators of the importance of both the E.H. and P.H. home teaching programs. We are paid for one-half hour of preparation time just as the regular classroom teachers are. No other school district I have worked for does this.

At a meeting of Home Teachers called by Dick Jenkins, Director of Pupil Services, before this school year started, I met several of the staff. Many of them, by their own choice, have been home teaching in this district for four to six years. In my opinion, this says something very positive about our program.

round the town

Bounced out of bed the other morn, raced across cold floor, gave the thermostat a quick twist to 70, then back under the electric blanket to thaw out whilst waiting for the homestead to reach the desired heat level before we dare start the day.

It is a routine well established in the American lifestyle, as commonplace as breathing fresh air.

But fresh air, as we all (cough!) know is in trouble. So is home heat.

The Public Utilities Commission for California has placed tough new restrictions on the use of natural gas. New industrial and commercial ventures must first clear with the PUC, before the gas can be hooked up.

The energy crunch is for real. First it's natural gas that is dwindling to an alarming low; electricity may be next, followed by oil and butane. Cold winters ahead, chickadee.

I was thinking that over, whilst taking that "final five" under the electric blanket, while the household thermostat did its automated duty.

"Did you turn on the bathroom heater too?" says the female voice from other side of bed. Her blood runs cold. Never ever reaches her feet, which she must therefore warm by placing same in the middle of my back, or whatever.

"All systems are on and the word is GO!" I advise her. It is the standard morning pep talk to get her into the kitchen, boil those eggs, burn that toast. It's the American way.

But she won't budge a muscle until the heat is up. One day, during one of those pensive bedtime moments, I put it squarely to her: "Which would you part with first — me or your electric blanket?"

"That's a silly question," she says. But never did give me a straight answer. Hasn't to this day.

We are a nation basking in warmth. No other peoples on this globe devote as much money and science to keeping the body warm, I am informed. Seems to me I read that in National Geographic. There's a dilly of a report on heat in the current issue of Geographic. But not very encouraging.

Seems as though Mother Earth has been going through "an unusual warm spell" for the last few hundred years. World temp has been dropping like crazy in the last several decades, though.

Some scientists see a return of the ice age. We've had at least three of 'em . . . when the great Arctic ice cap moved down clear across Canada and much of Northern Europe. Made life a mite uncomfortable for those early folk, I'll tell you.

"Turn up the bed bricks another degree or two," I can hear Sylvia Caveperson advising her spouse. "Forget it," he replies. "Grab the family jewels and let's clear out of here . . . the ice man is cometh."

The question now is whether the ice cap will take over first, or whether civilized man will simply exhaust the world's supply of energy . . . gas, oil, enough electric blankets to provide each of us with one.

The energy we burn, and then exhaust into the atmosphere, or wherever, is also raising hell with the earth's temp. The glacier spread is cooling us off, the industrial exhaust is warming us up. It's quite a battle. Scientists can't agree as to who's winning, so they call it a draw. For now.

Some figure the answer to the energy crunch is to make better use of the sun. New industrial plants, schools, even private homes are being designed so as to use the sun's energy . . . for heating in winter, cooling in summer. Costs a bundle to install. Still needs "traditional heating sources" to back it up. But it's a step in the right direction . . . "Toward energy independence." That means we can tell the Arabs to go jump in the Dead Sea.

Alaska's oil will help, but only for so long. Nuclear power is another answer, until the uranium supply runs out. The world will soon be out of joint, and out of heat too. This nation's Tricentennial will be a mighty cool party.

But have faith. In Mother Nature, who is inclined to reduce the world's populace just when it appears the resource supply is running out. Science figures that's what happened to the world's great deserts . . . where intelligent, resourceful people once lived in splendor. In warmth and comfort. Until the ice age cometh. Screwed everything up.

What had once been Broadway at Times Square suddenly became the Sahara. Country club golf courses turned into arid wastelands. The fat cats turned into skinny nomads. Whole civilizations disappeared, even including professional sports.

I was thinking about all that, taking my final- five under the electric blanket, that recent cold morn.

"Is the bathroom warm yet?" asks female voice from other side of bed. I don't give her one chance in ten of surviving the next ice age.

Forgetful

I guess I'm one of the world's worst in the absent minded department.

When I taught a photojournalism class several years ago I had that reputation among my students. I still get kidded when I return to Santa Cruz and see one of them on the street.

Looking back at the time I tried tuning up a car and forgot to put oil back in the car, I have to laugh to preserve my sanity.

Occasionally, I see another unfortunate soul who has let his gray matter go astray and say "tsk, tsk" and "Thank goodness it isn't me — again!"

Take the case of a young man driving through Livermore with a friend recently. He seemed the passively rebellious type who indulged in an unkempt wild appearance, a bit too much alchohol — and probably wouldn't hurt a fly!

Seems this young chap (in his early twenties) had previously spent the night in the drunk tank down Fresno way and a friend held onto his car for safe keeping.

Imagine the frustration of sobering up the next morning, being let out of the slammer and not having the slightest idea what happened or where his car was.

Being unable to find his car and having a mind which was still fuzzy and buzzing — he reported the car stolen.

Later — probably over a six - pack of beer — the friend told our non - hero what a good pal he had been by taking care of his car.

Such delight . . . they go for a spin . . . all worries were over . . . the hell with everything . . . "Let's go to Oakland."

The young man forgot one small detail. The car in which he and his friend were riding had been reported as stolen.

When the duo hit Livermore, the local gendarmes made a routine traffic check on their car and the state's computer banks went "TILT!"

Guns were drawn and handcuffs were slapped on the two.

I still can't figure out why the boys in blue needed their weapons on two passive fellows who wore puzzled looks on their faces. Do they do that with ALL suspicious stops? If so, I hope I never look suspicious to them — chances are I will have forgotten my license, registration card or even my head.

Paying The Price

Lighter Times

I passed up a poor - paying chance one time to write for one of the most famous of our national magazines. But I'm often approached by fledgling writers who ask me how to get a job on a national magazine. I always tell them to read the style of the magazine, forget about the content since that changes from week to week, and after slavishly imitating that style, they can go to work on that magazine. I've had lots of success with several proteges, including two rhesus monkeys who landed jobs at Time magazine.

In fact, if you want to read a sample of my style book on Time magazine, it follows.

"Take no prisoners," said cheerful, gutsy, 47 year old Turkey Falls High School principal Ralph Cramden. The hairy, two fisted educator who won his home in a poker game, was responding to the latest rash of vandalism at Turkey Falls High School, the smashing of 55 school lockers by a stolen Sherman tank driven by local 10 year olds.

Cramden, smiling fiendishly through an ivory cap job performed by local denstist Milton Furd, announced a program of noontime tortures going beyond the usual feeding hot lunches to the student body. The kids will be forced to watch old reruns of "I Love Lucy" and "The Art Linkletter Show," inhuman treatment once outlawed by the Geneva conventions.

"If this doesn't break them in seven minutes, I don't know what will," said the 47-year-old practitioner of Christian Science, who worked his way west from Nyack , N.Y. after World War II to fulfill a dream revealed to him by his Aunt Clara.

astrograph

For Friday, Nov. 5, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You'll have to look out for No. 1 today if something material is at stake. Those you deal with will be protecting their own interests.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Victory comes to you through persistence. Don't be discouraged if things start out slowly. You'll win by hanging in there.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Keep your own counsel today, rather than discussing your problems with others. You'll find the solution if you get off alone.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Seek a change of pace later in the day. Put your worldly concerns aside temporarily. Do something that's fun with friends.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Challenge brings out the best in you today. You'll see what I mean if you're confronted by someone seeking a little healthy competition.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Take a firm position on issues you feel strongly about today. Stand up and defend your cause the best way you know how.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't be afraid to negotiate a bit forcefully today in business. You won't get what you want if you're wishywashy.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Take into consideration the views of companions and associates today. They may have a better approach to things than you do.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It's possible you could be burning the midnight oil tonight because you've put off tasks till the last minute. Get an early start.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Sometimes it's necessary to take a calculated risk. Don't play things so close to the vest today that you let opportunity slip away.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be prepared to make a few concessions today if it will keep everyone happy. Being obstinate could be a disadvantage to you, too.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If shopping today, don't pay more for items than you know them to be worth. You won't be remorseful later if you are cost-conscious now.

Your Birthday

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The late Sonny Moyse, longtime editor of the Bridge World magazine, was one of the most exciting players. He would have been one of the greatest, if it were not for his penchant for taking some action on every hand. Here is one of his triumphs.

It was a pair tournament. Moyse sat West and decided that he just could not let North play at two diamonds. After all Sonny was looking at 13 high-card points and a five-card club suit. However he had to go to the three level to bid clubs. He could bid hearts at the two level and did just that. East might well have raised to three, but East knew something about Sonny's bidding and passed.

South looked at his two aces and decided to try two notrump. Sonny doubled! He didn't want East trying three hearts. Everyone passed and Sonny opened the king of clubs. Since the doubleton queen-10 appeared in dummy and no one held four clubs, Sonny collected five club tricks.

Meanwhile, South discarded down to two queens and six diamonds in dummy. He was going to make his contract if diamonds broke.

Diamonds failed to break for him and he was held to four tricks so East and West scored 1100 points.

Ask the Jacobys

A Pennsylvania reader wants to know the meaning of a four-spade opening bid.

The answer is that it means whatever the partnership wants it to, but practically all experts, including the Jacobys, use it to show a hand such as

♠ A K Q J x x x x ♥ x x x ♦ x ♣ x

or

♠ K Q J 10 x x x x ♥ x x ♦ x ♣ A x.

In other words, eight playing tricks and not too much in high cards.

Alameda County service

Free health clinic offered for elderly

Free health screening for people 60 and over is available in southern Alameda County for those who do not have a source of regular medical care.

The service is sponsored by the Alameda County Health Care Services Agency. It is funded by Older Americans Act, Title III through the Alameda County area agency on aging.

Screening services include: Diabetes; a urine specimen is taken and tested at the screening site — no need to bring a sample.

Blood pressure; please wear a short or loosely sleeved shirt or blouse.

Vision problems; please bring your glasses. Distant vision is tested.

Glaucoma; measure eye pressure with a machine which does not touch the eye. No drops or medicines are used and the procedure is painless.

Hearing problems; give hearing tests as needed. Please bring your hearing device if you have one.

Kidney and Liver; some kidney and liver disturbances may be found by taking a blood sample and sending it to lab for analysis.

Chronic lung disease; questions will be asked and a breathing test may be recommended.

Heart disease; an EKG is given and later read by a heart specialist.

Height and weight are taken.

After screening an opportunity is given to talk to a public health nurse on an individual basis. This will include counseling on most of the screening results, nutrition, medicines and on any other health related topic.

The clinic is staffed by public health nurses, health service aides and a Spanish speaking interpreter. A medical clerk and volunteers are on hand plus other specialists as available.

For further information call 577-1287 and ask about the Health Care Van.

Chabot offers tree, shrub field course

A short field course on natural trees and shrubs will be offered by Chabot College Valley Campus instructor Lenora Main beginning at 9 a.m. Saturday.

The course will be conducted from 9 until 11:50 a.m. each Saturday morning through Dec. 11.

Designed to introduce students to natural history of the Livermore Valley, the class will include field trips to Sunol Valley Recreation Park, Shadow Cliffs, Del Valle, Tarraville Creek, and the Oakland Museum.

The class is open to the public and interested students may enroll at the first meeting Saturday at 9 a.m. in Room 202 at Valley Campus.

For additional information, telephone 455-5300.

Hayward hosts Vet parade

Hayward will serve as host city for the 1976 Veterans Day Parade that will attract units from all Alameda County communities for that Nov. 11 pageant.

The day - long festivities get underway with the parade, set for a 10:30 a.m. start. It all winds up with a 7 p.m. dinner at the Veterans Memorial Building in Hayward and to which the public is invited. Dinner tickets are $6 per person and can be reserved by calling 636-1556.

Additional information may be obtained by calling Bob Wise at that same San Leandro number.

VMH has stress class

SAN RAMON — Getting ulcers? Chomping nails?

There's a better way to deal with stress. And the public can learn about it in "Coping with Stress," another program in the free Health Dialogue '76 - '77 series at the Family Medical Center of Valley Memorial Hospital.

The program will be at 10 a.m. Wednesday, Nov. 10, at the center located at 9260 Alcosta Blvd.

Participating in the panel will be psychiatrist Grant Syphers; crisis therapist Rhondalynn Summers; and clinical social worker Diane Hall.

The panel members will discuss how people respond to stress; what kinds of stress are normal; and what sources of help are available when people feel they cannot cope.

A question and answer period will follow the panel discussion.

A "Life Change Test" will be available at the meeting. This test was developed by Dr. Thomas H. Holmes, a pioneering researcher in the field of stress - related illnesses at the University of Washington School of Medicine, Seattle.

Dr. Holmes devised a scale of 43 life changes that can predispose a person to becoming ill — death of a loved one, move into a new home and other major events.

The three panelists are on the staff of Alameda County's Valley Mental Health Clinic in Pleasanton and each has a private practice. Dr. Summers is also a part - time therapist in the crisis intervention service at Valley Memorial Hospital.

A graduate of the medical school at the University of California, San Francisco, Dr. Syphers completed an internship in family medicine at Highland Hospital, Rochester, N.Y., and his residency in psychiatry at the University of Rochester.

Ms. Hall earned her master's degree in social work with an emphasis in community mental health from the University of California, Berkeley.

Here's a safety route

Did anyone ever tell you about the value of planning escape routes from every room in the home?

Well, here it is — carefully figure out at least two routes to the outside from each room in the house, especially bedrooms.

Rehearse exit plans with every member of the family and guests. Make sure each person knows what to do. Arrange for assistance in escaping for young children and older members of the HouseHoT.

Always keep exit routes clear. Don't place objects in doorways or tall heavy furniture in front of windows which may be needed for escape. Make sure all family members know how to operate locks and release window screens.

Make sure everyone, especially the children, understands the rule, "once out, stay out". Going back into the house is extremely dangerous during a fire.

When all people leave the house, call the fire department. Know how to do it quickly and correctly from a neighbor's house.

Installing a fire detector can give you good early warning of a fire. Consult your fire department for information about them.
